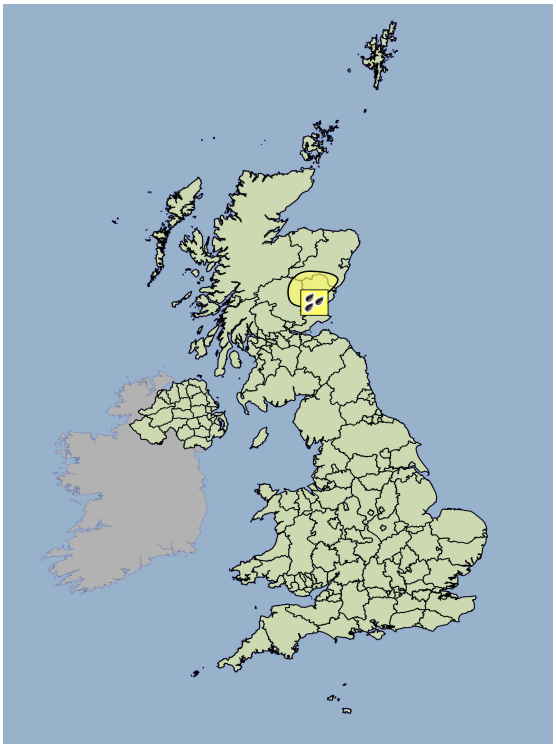
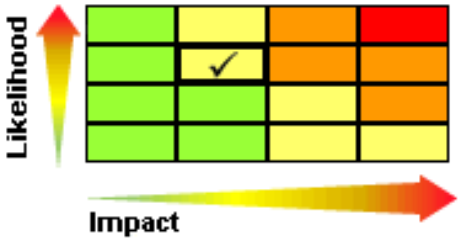
National Severe Weather Warning Service





CANCELLED

Chief Forecasters Assessment
A strong and moist southerly air flow will become established across Scotland later on Monday, bringing the potential for persistent and often heavy rain over exposed hills, especially over the east Grampians during Tuesday.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Alert of Rain

Valid from 06:00 on Tue, 06th Oct 2015 until 21:00 on Tue, 06th Oct 2015

Outbreaks of rain will spread north across Scotland on Monday afternoon. Rain will turn persistent, and heavy in places overnight and through much of Tuesday, accompanied by strong winds. The heaviest rain is likely to be over higher ground in the east during Tuesday. Rain will persist in the east on Wednesday, but ease in intensity as winds ease. The public should be aware of the potential for disruption due to flooding and hazardous driving conditions.
